

Matthew Krieger - Bio

matt@matthewkrieger.com | LinkedIn

Technology Executive | Founder | Board Director | Advisor | Presenter | Mentor

Matthew Krieger is a technologist and executive with experience in IT, manufacturing and nonprofit. He is President of Cober, Inc., an industrial heating equipment manufacturer providing large scale oven systems to companies such as Proctor and Gamble, Corning and GE. Previously, Matthew held senior IT leadership positions at Time and the Reader's Digest Association in the roles of division CTO, global data center management, strategy and governance.

Matthew is board Chair of the Reader's Digest Partners for Sight Foundation, a non-profit grant maker focusing on direct services to increase the independence of blind and visually impaired individuals.

Matthew founded and built Whysper, a text-to-speech audio content aggregator. He serves on the board of the International Microwave Power Institute and advises Tech 2 Success, Cyber-Seniors and Creative Coefficient.

He is a frequent presenter on topics of business and technology and the intersection of them. Matthew has a Master of Science in Computer Science from NYU Poly and a Bachelor of Science in Physics from the University of Connecticut.

Who Am I?

- President, Cober Inc.
- Founder, Whysper
- Chair, Reader's Digest Partners for Sight Foundation
- Board Member, International Microwave Power Institute
- Chapter Co-chair and Mentor, SCORE Western Connecticut
- Advisor, Creative Coefficient
- Advisor, Tech 2 Success
- Advisor, Cyber-Seniors
- Frequent speaker/presenter

Previously

- Senior Director IT, Time Inc.
- Director Global Data Center & Architecture, Reader's Digest
- IT leadership roles in strategy & governance
- Adjunct Professor, UConn

MS, Computer Science from NYU Polytechnic

BS, Physics from University of Connecticut

